The Role & Responsibilities of a Designated Safeguarding Officer

Innovate's Designated Safeguarding Officer is the person who has responsibility for ensuring a company's safeguarding policy is adhered to. The role isn't essential to the operation of the company. However, the safety of children and their wellbeing is of paramount concern to Innovate Dorset Ltd. And our work with children and/or vulnerable adults, the company insists that an officer position is in place to ensure that safeguarding efforts are as efficient and effective as possible.

THE ROLE

The Designated Safeguarding Officer is the first point of contact for all staff and volunteers to go to for advice if they are concerned about a child (this may also need to be out of hours, in which case a Deputy has also been appointed to share the responsibility.)

DSO and DDSO have a higher level of safeguarding training and knowledge than the rest of the staff and will have completed the appropriate training and update as required to act within this role.

- They ensure that they comply with safe recruitment procedures for new staff members and their induction.
- They support staff to assist in information regarding concerns and support decision-making about whether staff concerns are sufficient enough to notify Children's Social Work Services or whether other courses of action are more appropriate.
- They make formal referrals to the Dorset MASH Team.
- They ensure that concerns are logged and stored securely
- They have joint responsibility with the management to ensure that the organisation's safeguarding policy and related policies and procedures are followed and regularly updated.
- They are responsible for promoting a safe environment for children and young people.
- They know the contact details of relevant statutory agencies e.g., Children's Social Work Services (CSWS), Police, Local Safeguarding Children Board, and the Local Authority Designated Officer (LADO) for allegations against staff.
- It is not the responsibility of the designated safeguarding officer to decide whether a child has been abused or not- that is the responsibility of investigative statutory agencies such as Children's Social Work Services or the police. However, keeping children safe is everybody's business and all staff should know who to go to and how to report any concerns they may have about a child being harmed or at risk of being harmed.

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Drawing up and enforcing the company's safeguarding policy.
- Being alert to and recognising welfare issues, being sure to challenge poor practice.
- Sharing appropriate information with relevant people.
- Gathering any other relevant information and evidence.
- Consulting local safeguarding children board procedures for additional information and guidance if needed.
- Making referrals to social services when appropriate.
- Continue working with the family, sharing information, and contributing to plans if the concern is investigated.
- Ensuring that all staff having contact with children, vulnerable adults, and/or their families have received appropriate training on safeguarding issues.
- Being the first point-of-call for all staff who have safeguarding concerns.
